ROW's Financial Education for Women

July - October 2007 Classes

The REAP Financial Classes are specifically designed for women. The curriculum is a series of 4 classes that cover many important topics that affect women's lives. Women will discuss money and power and how it relates to safety in our society. Women will set financial goals, learn creative ways to increase their income, decrease debts, create a cost of living plan, better understand their credit file and how it impacts their ability to meet their basic needs. Women will also learn how to build and repair credit, the basics of banking and ways to invest their money. Women will be provided with information on asset building programs around the state that can assist them in reaching their financial goals by matching their savings. The classes are fun and interactive and we invite women in the community to attend. Childcare may be available upon advance notice-must call ahead
