TFYS Involvement in a Child Welfare Case

Guiding Principles

- Tlingit & Haida child welfare services are committed to Alaska Native families
- TFYS staff collaborate with other Tlingit & Haida tribal programs and with non-tribal community agencies
- Out-of-home placement is prevented whenever possible
- Careful planning for out-of-home care
- Parents can learn effective parenting techniques and strategies
- TFYS staff recognizes historical trauma

Structured Decision Making®

Prevention Services Model

Why Prevention Services for TANF Families?

- TANF applicants are at high risk for future child maltreatment (estimates between 20-60%)
- Providing additional supports and services can strengthen families before problems become severe
- Prevention services are limited and need to be targeted to families at greatest risk

SDM Prevention Services Assessments

- Use research to inform assessment process
- Provide workers with reliable, valid, equitable and useful assessment tools
- Provide managers with data to improve planning, evaluation and resource allocation

SDM Assessments

- Likelihood of future harm
- Open prevention services case or traditional TANF
- At initial in-person contact

Screening Assessment

Family/Child Strengths and Needs Assessment

- Identify family/child strengths and needs
- Prioritize services in prevention service plan
- At the family team meeting

- Likelihood of future harm
- Continue with services or close the prevention services component
- Every 90 days

Screening Reassessment

Screening Assessment

Components

- Child Neglect Risk Factors
- Child Abuse Index
- Scored Risk Level
- Overrides

What is the likelihood of future harm?

Should prevention services be provided?

What intensity of service is required?

Successes and Challenges to Service Delivery

- Assessment tools easy to use and help guide workers in building plans
 - Provides Structure
- Families access services when they are in crisis
 - Trust and relationship with their caseworkers
- Family identifies their strengths and help build case plans
 - Strength based and client driven
- Wrap around services provided to the family
 - Collaboration with TANF staff, the family and other service providers

Successes and Challenges to Service Delivery

- TANF turnover and buy in to the program
 - Difficulty getting referrals
 - Attendance to joint training is low
- Families don't keep appointments with caseworkers
 - Causes delays in timeline requirements
 - Only seek caseworker assistance in times of crisis, not day to day

SDM® Prevention Services Model Summary

- Screen families who are applying for TANF services
- Offer prevention services to those who will benefit the most (high or very high risk families)
- Assess strengths and needs of families to identify appropriate services
- With family, develop a prevention services case plan to address priority needs
