CCAM Recommendations

1. Coordinated Transportation Planning

- In order to effectively promote the development and delivery of coordinated transportation services,
- the CCAM recommends that the Administration seek mechanisms (statutory, regulatory, or administrative)
- to require participation in a community transportation planning process for human service transportation programs.

2. Vehicle Sharing

- In order to reduce duplicative transportation services, as well as idle time for drivers and vehicles,
- the CCAM recommends that vehicles used in human service transportation be made available to other federally-funded programs, consistent with the Common Grant Rule.
- Within the next year, each Federal Department should review and modify its policies and procedures to proactively promote the sharing of vehicles with recipients and sub-recipients of other Federal programs.
